

NM EA 2012 CONFERENCE & EXPO

Celebrating 55 years

One productive trip, two great conferences

Never before have so many opportunities been available to the international marine electronics industry—in one place, in one week.

SEPTEMBER 23-28, 2012

Mark your calendar

This year the NMEA International Marine Electronics Conference & Expo is coordinated with the RTCM Conference over one week.

- A wonderful venue at Loews Royal Pacific Hotel at Universal Studios in Orlando, Florida
- Overhauled NMEA education and exhibit program which will appeal to every member
- NMEA technical certification courses
- Introduction of the new products for 2013, PLUS great product discount incentives from manufacturers for attending dealers
- Register for RTCM technical programs during the same week, relating to regulatory and commercial marine markets
- Network within your marine industry niche, with all of the leading players in attendance
- “5 by 5” Polynesian barbecue (more on this cryptic later) and re-vamped product awards event!

ONE PLACE, ONE WEEK

The 2012 NMEA Conference & Expo and the 2012 RTCM Conference will have separate registrations, allowing participants to attend either, or both events. The week of Sunday, Sept. 23 through Saturday, Sept. 28 will bring a rich choice of technical seminars, education, and business opportunities. Watch www.nmea.org for details and registration information.

* NMEA apologizes to our Jewish members for scheduling the 2012 convention to overlap with the 2012 Jewish high holidays. This was an oversight and these important dates will be avoided in future convention planning.

NMEA CONTACT INFORMATION email: info@nmea.org or ph: (410) 975-9425

Who should attend

- dealers
- distributors
- manufacturers
- wholesalers
- standards bodies
- product developers
- surveyors
- electronics installers

